A General Description of the Current Project
The current study is part of a line a research that involves the creation of a theoretical model to predict jazz improvisation achievement. The researcher has revised the variables of jazz theory knowledge and jazz improvisation self-efficacy and plans statistically test these variables as a means to improve on the original model.

A General Description of the Student’s Responsibilities
Responsibilities will include:

• Conduct a general literature review using the electronic resources available through the University of Oklahoma Libraries.
• Create an annotated bibliography and APA citations of all of the chosen literature.
• Attend weekly progress meetings.

The selected student should be detailed oriented and possess strong writing skills.