Meet Dr. Andrew Liew, MD

I was born in Norman, OK and currently live in Tulsa, OK. I have lived in many different places in the US - Chicago, IL, Portland, OR, Arlington VA.

I enjoy spending my time with my family, being a car enthusiast, and taking care of our dog named "Bobcat."

I have also gotten into sneakerhead culture.

What does being a doctor mean to you?

As a child and adolescent psychiatrist, I am entrusted with providing the best mental health care for the most important people in every parent's life - their children. This is a responsibility I honor everyday I see my patients and their families.

What advice would you give to your younger-self?

"Hey, take it easy" - Jack Black, Nacho Libre

What would you tell younger students who are exploring health careers?

Choose a health career that gets you excited and keeps your curious. Being passionate about caring for people not only helps your patients, it helps you be a better clinician.
