

ABOUT THE CENTER

The Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center is a nonpartisan institution devoted to teaching and research related to the United States Congress and to strengthening representative democracy through engaged and informed citizens.

Established in 1979, the Center is a living tribute to the ideals, leadership and accomplishments of the Honorable Carl Albert, native Oklahoman, University of Oklahoma alumnus, Rhodes Scholar and 46th Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives.

The Center houses one of the largest congressional archives in the country, with the papers of 61 former members of Congress, and 25 other collections with close ties to congressional politics such as former legislative and political aides, journalists, scholars and organizations.

Distinguished visitors to the Center:

U.S. Rep. Tom Cole

Research and Studies Center

The University of Oklahoma

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Carl Albert Graduate Fellowship is a highly competitive and prestigious program at the Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center at the University of Oklahoma.

Carl Albert Fellows work closely with Center faculty, in cooperation with the Department of Political Science, to pursue a rigorous and individualized program of study leading to a Ph.D. Fellows focus their program of study on fundamental issues in representative government in America, including the study of institutions, processes and public policy. Faculty regularly interact with Fellows in a physical space that facilitates collaboration and scholarly exchange. The laboratory model of graduate education means students will be involved with research from day one.

The robust fellowship package provides up to four years (including summers) of financial support as a teaching or research assistant and a final year with no work obligations to complete the dissertation. The fellowship pays for full tuition and fees, funded research and conference travel, course work at the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research and dissertation research funds. The Center also assists Fellows in finding the best possible placement to meet career goals.
