2008-present	Roger and Sherry Teigen Presidential Professor
2002-present	Professor of Psychology, University of Oklahoma
1995-2002	Associate Professor, University of Oklahoma
1989-1995	Assistant Professor, University of Oklahoma

Academic Training

1986-1989 1981-1986	 Postdoctoral Fellowship, Northwestern University, Supervisor, R. Ratcliff Ph.D., Indiana University, Cognitive psychology, minor in mathematics University Fellowship, 1981; Doctoral grant-in-aid, 1985 Dissertation—Multi-level storage and retrieval: An empirical investigation and theoretical analysis, Advisor, R. M. Shiffrin
1977-1981	B. A., University of California, Irvine, Psychology, cum laude

Research Interests

I conduct use-inspired basic research on human memory. This includes the impact of automation on cognitive performance, situation awareness, and prospective memory, and the transformative role of decision confidence on eyewitness identification. My approach includes the application of formal computational models.

Podcast Carceral Studies Conversations (2021)

https://soundcloud.com/ou-carceralstudies/dr-scott-gronlund-ou

In this episode, Dr. Scott Gronlund discusses the malleability of memory in relation to eyewitness evidence in criminal legal proceedings, as well as the key lessons from an analysis of cases where DNA exonerated people in which eyewitness testimony was key in the conviction. Gronlund discusses the factors that influence both memory and confidence.

A masked attacker shoots up an apartment in Bucyrus, Ohio, leaving three dead and two young children clinging to life. After witnesses report seeing a "large black man" near the scene, police close in on Kevin Keith, a local drug dealer who was recently busted based on information offered by a snitch. It was the snitch's family that was murdered, leading prosecutors to argue Kevin's motive was revenge. Despite the lack of physical evidence, Kevin has spent 25 years locked up — but a young public defender believes long-hidden case records will shed new light on the Bucyrus murders and clear Kevin's name.

Invited Lectures

Cognitive factors in air traffic control. FAA Symposium on human factors. Washington, DC, October, 8, 1991.

Are we related or just familiar?: Research on human memory. Northeast Missouri State University, Kirksville, MO, January, 1992.

Memory models can't explain 80-year old data. Invited colloquium at UT Arlington, Arlington, TX, January, 1995.

Role of memory in air traffic control. UC Riverside, Riverside, CA, April, 1997.

Role of memory in air traffic control. University at Albany, SUNY, May, 1997.

Strategic planning in a complex environment. Kansas State Univ., Manhattan, KS, May, 2000.

Eyewitness identification and the sequential lineup advantage. Texas Tech University, April, 2004.

Eyewitness identification and the sequential lineup advantage, University of Illinois, April, 2004.

How Memory Works. OU AP Summer Institute, June, 2005.

Is the sequential lineup advantage an artifact of a biased lineup? OU AP Summer Institute, June, 2006.

Lineup composition and the sequential lineup advantage. Invited colloquia at UC Riverside, April 2007.

Lineup composition and the sequential lineup advantage. Invited colloquia at the University of Nebraska, April 2007.

Puzzle of the sequential lineup. Invited colloquium at Texas A&M University, Commerce, Sept. 2009.

Improving Faulty Eyewitness Identification: Case Studies, Empirical Studies, and Controversies. Invited colloquium at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, ME, April, 2011.

Applications of psychology to the law. Invited guest lecture at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, ME, April 2011.

Presentation to the Oklahoma Justice Commission, Oct. 2011

Improving eyewitness identification: Saga of the sequential lineup. Invited colloquium at the University of Arkansas, Feb. 2012.

Improving eyewitness identification: Saga of the sequential lineup. Invited talk to the University of Oklahoma Sociology/Criminology Club, Mar. 2012.

Presentation to the Oklahoma Criminal Defense Institute, June, 2012

Memory as evidence: Handle with care. Invited address to SWPA 2013, Fort Worth, TX.

Relative and absolute judgments in eyewitness decision making. University of Illinois, October, 2013.

Relative and absolute judgments in eyewitness decision making. Nashville University, November, 2013.

Conducting and eyewitness lineup: How did we get it wrong? Indiana University Alumni Recognition, October, 2014.

Cost and benefits of eyewitness reforms. University of Alabama-Huntsville, Nov. 2014.

Gronlund, S. D.

Perils of Intuitive Theorizing in Eyewitness Identification. Washington University, St. Louis, March, 2016.

When can you trust an eyewitness? Oklahoma County Public Defender Office, Oklahoma City, OK, May, 2016.

The new science of eyewitness memory. Department of Psychology, UT Arlington, March, 2018.

The new science of eyewitness memory. Department of Psychology, University of Illinois, April, 2018.

The new science of eyewitness memory. Mary Abbott House, Norman OK, April, 2018.

Mediation of recognition memory. Department of Psychology, University of Illinois, April, 2018.
