The Anne and Henry Zarrow School of Social Work at The University of Oklahoma will offer an elective course on the topic of international child welfare.

Students will have the opportunity to explore concepts of child welfare in Israel and compare those practices with ones that apply to their own experiences.

This elective exchange will take place in May - June 2020. It will require two blocks of time from the students. The first half will require participation in the Israeli students' visit to Tulsa (5/10 - 5/14). The second half will be the OU students' trip to Israel (5/31 - 6/5). A group of select MSW students and faculty from the school of social work will travel to Israel and meet with administrators, university faculty and staff of the Haruv Institute in Jerusalem. Students will tour non-profit and governmental agencies and explore child welfare services in Israel.

How to Apply

Application is available online from Nov 29 through Dec 31, 2019

The program will also include visits to sites in Israel of cultural, historical and religious significance.

The location of Israel and its surroundings contribute context to the study of child well-being. The complex environments of culture, race, religion and politics add to the understanding of providing effective prevention and intervention in child maltreatment.

Through a generous donation by the Charles and Lynn Schusterman Family Foundation, all travel expenses, lodging, food and transportation will be covered for each student. Students will be responsible for paying for the elective course (around $1,500), passport fees, study abroad registration fee ($50), international insurance fee ($25), risk management fee ($50), a payment to Haruv USA ($250), and spending money.
