Angela is a Marie Curie COFUND Research Fellow in the Department of Archaeology at Durham University and a Research Associate at the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology. She is an archaeologist with primary interests in zooarchaeology, paleoecology, and paleoenvironments. Her research focuses on early human-canid interactions, including dog domestication and the use of dogs as hunting technology.

Special consideration is given to the Office of the President for providing funding to support Anth 4953 Dogs: From Feral to Friend and these lecturers. These events are free and open to the public.
