

STUDENT FINANCIAL CENTER

The UNIVERSITY of OKLAHOMA

The Student Financial Center brings together the services of Bursar, Financial Aid, Scholarships, and financial planning through the MoneyCoach program, to help eliminate barriers that students and families may experience when it comes to financing their educations. Our center allows students to be served in one place by trained financial experts.

THE STUDENT FINANCIAL CENTER

THINGS TO KNOW

1 No appointment needed. If you come by, you'll be seen in a one-on-one appointment. If the office is closed to walk-ins due to COVID-19, you can make a virtual appointment through our website. We are available by phone and email as well as at ou.edu/sfc.

2 Everyone should file a FAFSA. There are scholarships that require a FAFSA even if you don't qualify for need-based aid. FAFSA information is often used to determine scholarship eligibility across campus.

3 The Student Financial Center does not award freshman merit scholarships, but our office can help with continuing student merit scholarships, loans, and need-based grants.

4 Watch your OU email address from the time you're admitted. SFC cannot release details of your FAFSA, your scholarships, or your aid to your personal email account. If your financial aid is not in order, we will not contact your personal email address. Check your OU email often after you've filed the FAFSA for updates and requests for missing information.

5 As an authorized user, your parents may pay your tuition and fees. However, they are not required to do so because the university bill belongs to the student. Parents are not allowed to receive a copy of your statement or talk to our office about your bill unless you give them permission to do so. Be sure that your parents know this and add them as an authorized user of your account through your one.ou.edu portal.
