To the student:

Read this information carefully. If you have questions or concerns, contact your advisors and/or the Graduate College.

Conditions and Limitations of Participation in the Accelerated Degree Program

Now that you have been admitted to the ADP, you will be engaged, assessed, and graded as a graduate student, although you will remain an undergraduate student until your bachelor's degree has been conferred. You will not be considered a graduate student with regard to funding opportunities, such as graduate assistantships, until your undergraduate college has cleared you for graduation with the bachelor's degree and you have been admitted to the graduate portion of the ADP.

Once you are admitted to the graduate portion of the ADP, you must meet all requirements and deadlines for the master's degree outlined in the Graduate College Bulletin, such as submitting a Program of Study and applying for graduation.

Eligibility for graduate admission:

- During the final semester of your bachelor's degree, you will need to submit the online Addition or Change of Program form to apply for admission to the graduate portion of the ADP.
- You must meet the Graduate College admission criteria outlined in the Graduate College Bulletin to be eligible for admission to the graduate portion of the ADP. No exceptions will be made and conditional admission will not be permitted.

Grade point average (GPA) requirements:

- Your GPA will be monitored by your undergraduate college until you have completed the bachelor's degree. If your undergraduate GPA, graduate GPA and/or overall GPA fall below a 3.00, you will be removed from the ADP and readmission to the ADP will not be permitted.
- Once you are admitted to the graduate portion of the ADP, your GPA will be monitored by the Graduate College. If your graduate GPA and/or overall GPA fall below a 3.00, you will be removed from the ADP. Neither academic probation nor readmission to the ADP will be permitted. You may apply to the stand-alone master's degree program, but you may not share hours (see the Graduate College Bulletin for rules on master's degree credit taken before graduate admission).
- The GPAs reported on your transcript may not reflect the GPA calculation methods used to determine your academic standing.
