FEATURING GUEST

DOROTHY ALEXANDER

Dorothy Alexander is a poet, storyteller, and publisher from Cheyenne, Oklahoma. As co-owner of Village Books Press, she focuses on publishing Oklahoma poets. Author of four poetry collections and a memoir in prose and poetry, Dorothy's work is inspired by the agrarian literary tradition and the populist political movements in the rural United States. She embraces primarily the narrative form, what she calls "narcissistic" narrative, and "selfie" poems. She is a retired lawyer and a municipal judge for a small town in western Oklahoma.
