UNIVERSITY DISTINGUISHED TEACHING AWARD
Formerly known as the Amoco Good Teaching Award
The University of Oklahoma - Norman Campus

The award known today as the University Distinguished Teaching Award was first introduced by the Standard Oil (Indiana) Foundation in 1966. The University of Oklahoma began participating in the program in 1968. In 1973, the name of the foundation was changed to the AMOCO Foundation, Inc., and was changed again to BP Amoco in the late 1990's. The award was then known as the Amoco Good Teaching Award. In 2003, with the sponsorship dropped, the award became known as the Good Teaching Award. In 2019, the award was given the new name of the University Distinguished Teaching Award. Although its name has changed several times, the purpose of the award has remained the same: to recognize excellence in teaching performance at the undergraduate level and to provide an incentive to achieve that goal.
